

SALON DU CHOCOLAT

November 15-17

Javits Convention Center

Tickets: Free - $25

---

Not only will chocolatiers, bakers and chefs from around the world be displaying their unique creations, but there will also be live demonstrations, workshops, chocolate sculptures, and even a chocolate fashion show of apparel that is literally good enough to eat.

WHISKYFEST NEW YORK

December 3

Marriott Marquis, 1535 Broadway

Tickets: $275-$395

---

Hone your palate with a tasting of Scotches, bourbons, ryes and other whiskies, along with rums, cognacs and a variety of spirits. Between sips you can listen to master distillers and brand ambassadors discuss the whisky-making process in general and the niceties of their particular libations.

LATKE FESTIVAL

December 16

Brooklyn Museum, 200 East Parkway

Tickets: TBD

---

Hanukkah doesn't begin until December 22, but latkes—a traditional food of the Jewish holiday—are just as tasty any time of year. Chefs and restaurants will offer their unique interpretations of the potato pancake at this festival. Given that past participants included Asian, Mexican and French restaurants, many of the latkes will be unique indeed.
